

WHO Cardiovascular Health Guidelines

Cardiovascular diseases are the leading cause of mortality worldwide.

Key risk factors include unhealthy diet, physical inactivity, and tobacco use.

Early symptoms of heart attacks include chest pain, nausea, and shortness of breath.

Immediate emergency care and lifestyle modifications significantly improve survival.